Acronis true image kingston

Hey, that's an odd issue. I just physically installed my Kingston SSD ride on my computer, but when I went to the site to activate it, the software didn't download. I'll click on the link, but it just doesn't give me any file or exe. Does anyone have a mirror for downloading? Or another link I can get it from? Appreciate it! Page 2 6 comments Page 2 8 comment Note: You can see two choices on the Disable screen – if so, what's the difference between Suspension Activation vs. If you have a suite edition or Creative Cloud, then disabling any single application on your machine will disable them all. In each package was a key for Acronis. I don't know if it's the full version or if it just works with the BX200 SSD. Try it. Here's proof that I really bought the SSDs and a picture of the instructions. You have to acronis.com/en-us/promo/tihd-download. //imgur.com/3ba68NqThe keys are 16-digit short keys. during the installment process you need to select the option 'I only have a short key'. If the version is useful and not just a demo, I can also post these keys here as well. To have fun!4 comments When you receive a license purchased outside of your Acronis account, you must manually register it with your Acronis account. However, I do not believe oem licenses have this functionality. You'll normally get it as a printout in the box and have to watch it. If you're buying a retail box license from Amazon or something, you want to register the key to your Acronis account. If you lose it before you do, you're probably out of luck. In some cases of you can show proof of purchase, technical support can still help, but you have to work with them and see if your scenario is covered or not. Acronis provides discounts for OEM license upgrades to the full version, but you will need a working OEM key to make the upgrade license work.
